The General Data Protection Regulation (GDPR) is the biggest development in data protection legislation in decades. After 25th May 2018 fines of up to €20m or 4% of your global turnover could be imposed. The ICO recommends training all staff in data safety.

Many NICVA members have availed of this reduced rate, these include:

"I would highly recommend Legal-Island's eLearning training – the support from the Legal Island team was great, from initial contact and the set up for staff. The information in the course was easy to understand and presented in a way that was interesting and informative and gave the appropriate amount of information for staff.

It has informed staff of the changing in Data protection and highlighted their responsibility to adhere to policy."
